

Dogs Ahoy! Seattle Boat Show Welcomes Furry First Mates at Inaugural Dogs on Deck Day

SEATTLE— January 10, 2020 — Ahoy dog-loving-boat-people! Or even non-boat people looking for a new adventure for your canine companion. Leash up your furry first mate (s) and head to the indoors location of the Seattle Boat Show at CenturyLink Field Event Center on Thursday, Jan. 30 for the first ever Dogs on Deck event. Dogs can stroll the red carpets, take in some new smells, meet other dogs, while their captains can make them free custom dog tags with the on-site engraving machine. Those arriving after 5pm for Yappy Hour can take home a dog life vest courtesy of Connelly Watersports (while supplies last, sizes not guaranteed).

But the fun doesn't stop there. Local boating magazine 48 North is searching for a cover dog. Those who are paws-itive their dog has what it takes to be America's... er 48° North's next super model should stop by the Dogs on Deck photo booth and have some fun with the props. The winning dog will be featured on the cover of a springtime issue of 48° North devoted to pets on board. Registration forms will be available at the photo booth. The 48° North casting directors will judge based on: unique appearance, best use of props and nautical costume or safety attire and "It" factor.

For those whose plans include boating this summer and they intend to take their furry friend along, there are three free seminars with tips and considerations to ensure that everyone on board enjoys the summer fun.
